

ABSTRACT

A method and system for forming FBAR filters for different frequency 5 bands with film stacks of different thicknesses, where at least some layers of different thicknesses are formed substantially at the same time, during a process operation are described herein.